Is Haverhill really the 'chav capital' of Britain?

taurants full of the chavars smoking and screaming at their sprogs named Chelsea and Mercedes, and Elizabeth Duke is constantly sold out of tacky cheap items that help the chav miesters look like Mr T's poor relation.

Here's what they say:

"I would suggest this town which was used as a dumping ground for post war chavs, could possibly be the chav capital of the world!"

"Yes there are the usual pound shops etc, and dodgy burger res-since the overspill and there's an amazing community spirit that you'll find in few other places in Cambridgeshire or Suffolk. There's also nothing wrong with a good burger restaurant - Wimpy was an institution before it shut down and we've heard nothing but good things from people about other popular burger joints like Route 66. As for the jewellery, Mr T is an icon and there's nothing wrong with being a legend. Added to that, just because you don't like it, it doesn't make it tacky.

There's also far more to the town than just "pound shops and dodgy burger restaurants". Go to the arts centre, the crowning glory in a lovely town. Haverhill Arts Centre has an amazing programme of events from pantomimes to local plays and Shakespeare. Or go to East Town Park and explore the natural beauty that surrounds the town.

Another review:

"I was shocked not to find Haverhill on Chavtowns until I realised the entire population are chavs. It was my greatest misfortune to work there for a while. What with the smell of the flavours and fragrance factory, the lard production plant and the dodgy sewerage works."

Here's what we say:

I'm sure most people would say good riddance to this ex-employee in town. Having reported in Haverhill for well over six months I can safely say I've never been there and smelt a stench of any sort. The town is not full of anyone I could class as a chav, instead it's full of generous, kind and lovely people.

If you ever needed proof then look at the response to help the victims of the Grenfell Tower blaze, the way people rushed to donate to the struggling Jaybeth animal sanctuary and most recently the way an entire community pulled together to try to fund a rebuild of Clement's Primary Academy's outside classroom.

my path.

"I swore out loud but cannot say whether I had time to brake or steer in reaction before we impacted the side of the car."

"The balls of my feet hurt afterwards so I think I must have done something."

"There was a hell of a bang, the windscreen shattered and my airbag went off. My glasses came off and everything went everywhere."

Witnesses to the crash confirmed seeing the Hyundai spin across the carriageway into the path of Mr Brindley's vehicle.

A statement from Bryce Douglas Grant said: "The Hyundai came straight across the road into my lane at a 45 degree angle."

"There was no way the Vauxhall driver could avoid the collision."

Paramedics were alerted to the crash at 2.52pm and sent multiple vehicles to attend the scene. Mr and Mrs Towers injuries were so great they died at the scene.

Reports from vehicle examiners found that there were no defects with either vehicle that could have contributed to the collision.

A medical report also concluded that Mr Towers was not intoxicated at the time of the accident.

PC Matthew Bill, a collision investigator, told the hearing that Mr Towers's attempt to correct his course after hitting the verge had thrown his vehicle into a 'yaw' or spin.

He said: "I consider this collision was the result of a momentary driver error."

Mr Heming concluded that both Reginald and Maria Towers died from multiple injuries as a result of the road traffic collision.

Closing the hearing he offered his condolences to the couple's family. He said: "It's a deeply tragic situation. I deal with a lot of accidents [with] that momentary lapse of concentration."

ANIMALS

TRANSFORMATION: Dudley the sheepdog pictured as he was when he was found and after his recovery at an animal sanctuary

'Full-of-love' rescue dog is jetting off to a new life

A SHEEPDOG puppy who was found on the brink of death with matted fur, covered in maggots, has had his life turned around as he jets off to Saudi Arabia with his new owner.

Nine month old Dudley was found in his ex-owner's garden tethered up with no shelter, food or contact with people – apart from when he was being abused.

The poor pup had nearly been starved to death when he was rescued by Carol Harris from Jaybeth Animal sanctuary, near Haverhill.

Dudley was starving to death when he was first brought to Jaybeth.

Carol said: "He had been starved almost to death. When he first came here his collar had been on him since he was about 10 weeks old, it was almost choking him to death as well."

"He couldn't eat or drink because fur was matted around his mouth and there were maggots in there."

"His muscles had wasted away, he could hardly stand at just 16 kilos – he's now near 40 kilos and that's in just 16 weeks."

@rach\_mc9CN

"To look at him at the start you couldn't help but see what a bag of bones he was."

Dudley was stripped of all his fur and the strangling collar was cut off to give him his freedom back and allow him to eat again.

Remarkably Dudley never once showed any sign of turning on people.

"He was one of nine puppies and Dudley found the wrong home but he never held it against anyone," said Carol.

She added: "He's a lovely, lovely dog, loves everyone."

After recovering at Jaybeth Dudley met Julie McGrath and it was love at first sight for the duo.

Julie – who had recently lost another dog – fell for Dudley and began coming to Jaybeth to walk him.

Three weeks later Dudley moved in and the two became inseparable.

Carol said: "He goes more or less everywhere with Julie. He's never alone now, he's really landed on his paws.

"He's really happy now. When I went over to take him to his new home he bowed straight in, knocked a glass of wine over and then licked it all up. So his first day there was a little tipsy."

Dudley is also set to become quite the jetsetter as he flies off to Saudi Arabia to keep Julie company on her frequent travels there.

"Julie travels quite a lot to Saudi and so she's taking him with. I can just see him on an airplane," said Carol.

Donations flooded into the animal sanctuary after a plea for help.

The petition to raise money to help feed and provide medical treatment for animals rescued and cared for by Jaybeth has now raised more than £1,200.

TRANSPORT

Town gets new charging points

NEW electric vehicle charging points have been installed in Haverhill to encourage local motorists to switch to the greener form of transport.

West Suffolk councils have invested in eight charging points across the region to encourage drivers to use electric or hybrid vehicles which are better for the environment and cheaper to run.

Two points have been installed at the Guineas car park in Newmarket, two at the Ehringhausen Way car park in Haverhill, two at Ram Meadow car park in Bury St Edmunds, while two existing chargers on level six of the Parkway multi-storey car park in Bury St Edmunds have been upgraded.

Peter Stevens, cabinet member for operations at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "We are committed to working to try to reduce vehicle emissions and improving the air quality in our towns and with the increase in charging points around the UK we will both be looking at electric vehicles when we go to buy a new car."

Cllr Stevens cited Public Health England figures which suggested air pollution was a contributory factor in one in 20 deaths of people aged over 30.

He added: "Not only are electric vehicles just as fast as other cars, they are also getting easier to charge with more than 13,000 charge points nationally."

"What is more, they are much cheaper to run with an electric vehicle generally costing around 3p per mile compared to 10p per mile for a petrol or diesel vehicle."

CASH FOR THE COMMUNITY

Here's your chance to win a

THE popular Cash for the Community campaign is back – and this year there's even more money on offer to community groups.

The News has once again teamed up with The Cambridge Building Society to give away a whopping £12,000 to 15 local community-based not-for-profit organisations.

Launched in 2011, Cash for the Community offers financial support to community groups and helps raise awareness of the great work they do.

David Bartlett, editor of the News, said: "We're pleased to be able to work with The Cambridge Building Society to support our local community and can't wait to find out who will make the final 15."

"Cash for the Community is a great way to raise the profile of smaller community groups and charities and having supporters play a part in helping them get a share of the pot is a lovely way to help make a difference."

To enter, organisations need to fill in an application form. From the entries received the team at The Cambridge will select 10 groups to be in the running to receive a share of the £12,000. The remaining five places will be put to an online public vote.

Once the 15 groups have been chosen, it will be down to readers, the local community and supporters of the organisations to collect as many tokens printed in the News as possible.

At the end of the campaign the value of each token collected will be calculated and the money divided in relation to how many tokens were sent in for each group.

Last year more than 17,500 tokens were collected and the highest share of the pot went to Chestnut and Acorn House (The Sick Children's Trust), which received £2,101. No group went home with less than £200.

The Cambridge's chief executive Stephen Mitcham said: "Cash for the Community is a brilliant way for us to support many different charities and community groups in the region that don't already benefit from our partnership or donation programmes.

"We love receiving all the entries as it gives us a chance to find out about the huge number of groups there are catering for a wide variety of different communities.

"It was an easy decision to increase the funding because there are so many deserving charities who rely on financial support.

"If there is a charity or community group you feel could really use some extra funds then please make sure you let them know about this campaign."

The future of local councils

I'm writing in reference to the story that some Haverhill councillors have concerns there may be fewer of them and less democratic representation if a new West Suffolk Council is created.

They should be aware that, whether there is a new single council or not, there will be an independent external review of the ratio of councillors to electors that we should have, and of ward boundaries, before our next elections in 2019. This is simply because the last review was in 2001 and our current wards are out of balance across St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

The main guiding principle of any review is that every council should have sufficient councillors to secure effective community leadership and representation. Indeed the review will make sure that a vote in Haverhill has the same weight as any other part of the area.

The real question is surely what's really important to the residents of Haverhill?

I suspect that when it comes down to it the people of Haverhill want their council tax as low as possible, their bins emptied, their roads swept, an exciting and thriving High Street, safe and clean parks and play areas, enough housing and decent jobs for people who grew up in the area to be able to stay and live near their families, a local democratic voice working on their behalf to right any wrongs – and of course they want us to be able to champion their cause at the highest levels and work with other public services to face national challenges such as improving health, housing and infrastructure and the much-needed improvements to the A1307.

Haverhill has a strong voice at the borough council and it is my firm belief that, regardless of political persuasion, that voice will be just as strong, if not stronger, if, come 2019, residents are electing their local representatives to a single council for West Suffolk.

Indeed I hope they will also bring their talents and expertise to the wider issues facing the whole of the area.

A single council should mean that we would have a stronger voice, but remain small enough to continue investing in and supporting local initiatives for our communities whom we serve.

Here's just one example. In Haverhill, we know that GP services are stretched. We have already begun one project – Haverhill LifeLink, a social prescribing scheme which will be delivered by ONE Haverhill and which is designed to free up some of that GP time which will benefit our local families and communities. I would like the council to be able to do more of this kind of work – putting aside the boundaries of who is responsible for delivering what and working together with other partners to address the real issues and challenges facing our residents, organisations and businesses.

At present we have one set of staff currently working for and across both St Edmundsbury and Forest Heath. This saves taxpayers and services £4 million a year. While this is great, there is still some duplication of meetings, for example for two sets of cabinets and scrutiny meetings. Quite frankly I would rather that our staff were using their time instead to deliver on the projects and services that make a real difference to our communities. Anything else would be a backwards step.

Haverhill, which I have known well for most of my life, is a growing town and that presents new opportunities. Most recently, we initiated and prioritised the Haverhill town centre masterplan, ahead of the one in Bury St Edmunds, and work with the ONE Haverhill partnership who led this. Delivery will of course take time but is underway. St Edmundsbury renegotiated the lease of the former Co-op building in Jubilee Walk precisely so that this plan can happen and there is more commercially sensitive work going on behind the scenes to aid this delivery.

In addition, and for the record, given the personal comments made by one or two Haverhill councillors, during my time as leader we have amongst other things, invested in secured funding for the following:

• £22 million invested in the development of the town, including the cinema complex and Queen Street enhancement works.

• £750,000 set up funding provided by the borough for the Haverhill Research Park.

• £4 million of LEP funding for the Research Park secured by the council. The borough also helped the Research Park secure Enterprise Zone status to make it an even more attractive proposition for business growth.

• £721,479.50 of Community Chest funding invested into projects that relate to strengthening families and communities in Haverhill.

• £67,000 invested in community projects in Haverhill from councillor locality budgets since the scheme was launched in Haverhill by myself and the late Cllr Gordon Cox.

• £200,000 contribution to ONE Haverhill towards its grant scheme.

• £133,000 of investment from Suffolk County Council and The Department for Communities and Local Government secured by the borough for delivery of the Haverhill LifeLink social prescribing project.

As a council we work with local partnerships to achieve on behalf of the town, whether that is via ONE Haverhill who we are working with as part of the town centre masterplan and the social prescribing project, or through investing in Community Chest and locality budgets to deliver in line with our strategic aim to strengthen families and communities.

Now is the time to take a real look at what our future can be to ensure that it is best shaped to meet the challenges faced by our communities. That is why I would urge the people of Haverhill to get involved with our discussions about a single council at westsuffolk.gov.uk/singlecouncil

Nature red in tooth and claw

AUTUMN hunting? Bland and inoffensive or brutal in its entirety? It is the hunting and brutal killing of young fox cubs.

As many as 10,000 fox cubs may be illegally brutalised and killed each year, unnecessarily.

It is down to the public to protect these young innocents by contacting the League Against Cruel Sports with information.

This disgusting activity – 84% of the public are against hunting of any kind – takes place in September/October in early morning or late evening.

Hunt staff wear tweeds rather than red coats. There is usually no chase and hunting may well take place on crop fields/woodland in which the young animals find themselves trapped.

They say that nature is red in tooth and claw, but nothing comes up to the brutality of cub hunting in my book. I could cry for humanity.

Town rallies to rebuild class after arson attack

MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

HUNDREDS of pounds have been raised by parents in Haverhill to rebuild an outdoor classroom that was torched by arsonists.

The wooden gazebo known as 'The Hideaway' was used by pupils at Clements Primary Academy to get out into nature.

Pupils were left distraught by the destruction of the beloved outdoor classroom which also served as a lasting memory of former headteacher Lesley Farrow. Mrs Farrow died in a horse riding accident in 2015 aged just 47.

Emma Limpus, whose nine-year-old son Charlie previously attended Clements Primary Academy started a JustGiving page with the aim of helping to rebuild the classroom.

Emma said: "Charlie got so much pleasure from the forest school outside when he was in the lower years.

"It's also a lasting memory of the last headteacher who was sadly killed in a horse riding accident. The outdoor classroom was the last thing she commissioned and

DESTROYED:
The scene after arsonists torched the outdoor classroom at Clements Primary Academy worked so hard for to be built for the children.

"I read about the fire in the News, one of my friends shared it on Facebook and I spoke to the school to see if they would mind and so far we've reached £475."

The Haverhill community has rallied around the crowdfunding with some local businesses even offering discounts on building materials.

Emma said: "A local company is offering low prices for building materials, the community is really pulling together."

Emma is hoping to raise at least £1,000 towards a rebuild.

She said: "A new building will cost more than that but it will be a great start. There's a real community spirit."

"A lot of people support it because people's grandchildren, children, nieces and nephews, even people who attended the school years ago have all said it's a great thing to do."

Staff at Clements Primary Academy have been overwhelmed by the generosity being shown by the community.

A spokesman for the school said: "Staff, students and pupils at Clements Primary Academy are deeply heartened by the fact that a fundraising appeal has started in the wake of the fire. It further underlines the special place the school has in our community."

In a letter to parents the school revealed a new working party was being set up to look at building 'incumbustible facilities'. It added: "May I say 'Thank You' and 'Well Done' for your support and generosity. You are a great example to our children."

Suffolk Fire and Rescue were called to the fire at 23:32 on Sunday. Suffolk Police confirmed they are treating the fire as arson.

An appeal for witnesses has also been launched.

PRISON

Concern at Highpoint staff levels

PRISON inspectors said they are seriously concerned about low staffing levels at Highpoint Prison near Haverhill in an annual report.

The Independent Monitoring Board (IMB) has released its 2016 report on the Category C mens prison, located in the village of Stradishall in Suffolk.

In the report, the IMB mentions ongoing serious concerns about low staffing levels, their impact on the daily regime, and the challenges faced to maintain a safe, decent and secure environment at Highpoint.

Susan Feary, Board Development Officer, said: "Nationally, the prison service has been in crisis for some time, and we raised concerns about it in our 2015 report.

"Being in the middle of nowhere in Suffolk means it is quite difficult to get staff in. During 2016, we had 43 vacancies overall, and officers are very thin on the ground.

"It is improving, but we do have ongoing concerns because when you are short of staff it does impact on the prisoners.

"For instance, it can mean that units have to be locked down, and prisoners will miss gym or library time, won't have as much access to health care or the opportunity to speak to officers."

The Board is now calling for a review of the arrangements for the handling and transportation of the property of prisoners who are transferred into or out of the prison.

"We are hoping it will get better now and the new government will come up with a reform plan for prisons."

The IMB says they are also concerned about the availability and use of a synthetic cannabinoid known as 'spice'.

JASMINE WATKISS

which continues to have a damaging effect in the prison.

The report says using spice can result in unpredictable and sometimes violent behaviour, and places further strain upon an already stretched workforce.

Ms Feary continued: "Last year, a lot of the drug was coming in from various sources and ambulances were having to be called.

"The prison service work hard to plug the supply, but it ends up getting in another way."

The report also raises concerns that some prisoners are arriving at Highpoint without a complete and up-to-date sentence plan, which puts increased pressure on the local Resettlement and Offender Management team, who help prisoners work towards their rehabilitation and resettlement plans.

The IMB says following up failures within the system takes considerable time and causes much frustration for prisoners and staff.

But they recognise the "very positive contribution" Amends - Pathway to Opportunity has made to the rehabilitative culture at Highpoint.

Ms Feary explained the work of Amends. She said: "Amends is a brilliant employment engagement initiative, which offers guidance to prisoners during their sentence in order to prepare them for work once they are released."

A Prison Service spokeswoman said: "We are committed to transforming prisons into places of safety and reform and have announced a major overhaul of the prison system including 2,500 extra frontline officers."

ROADS

A1307 branded as 'not fit for purpose'

RACHAEL
McMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

THE notoriously dangerous A1307 has been slammed as "not fit for purpose" despite it only having two accident cluster points.

Known as the "road of death" the A1307, which runs between Cambridge and Haverhill, is peppered with memorials to people who have died on the route.

Red signs along the road warn drivers it is a "high casualty route" and tells them to: "Slow Down - Take Care - Stay Alive".

At an A1307 forum meeting in Haverhill it was revealed that the road makes up only two of 82 accident cluster sites in Cambridgeshire as a whole, according to figures from Cambridgeshire County Council.

The Gog Magog junction with Babraham Road and the Fourwentways junction at Little Abington were revealed as the two accident blackspots.

Over three years, between 2013 and 2015, the Gog Magog junction recorded seven accidents, the Fourwentways junction recorded a total of six.

The Fourwentways junction had one serious accident in 2013 and another in 2014, the Gog Magog junction also recorded one serious accident in 2013 and 2014.

Cambridgeshire County Council's approved accident cluster sites are applied to junctions or along a 100 metre stretch of road based on accident figures from the most recent three calendar years.

The road stretch or junction needs to have had six or more slight injury accidents, three or more fatal or serious accidents, or five or more injury accidents providing one of them is fatal or serious.

Cllr Tony Brown, who attended the forum meeting, said the meeting was told the cause of accidents was blamed on drivers not looking properly when pulling out of junctions or overtaking and that driving too quickly for the road conditions had only been responsible for one accident.

However, Paul Donno, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, questioned whether the identification of the A1307's two cluster points reflected the dangers to motorists all along the road.

"Neither of those junctions, I don't believe, have had any deaths on," he said. "That road is littered with memorials where people have lost their lives.

"If drivers aren't looking properly, why not? Some accidents and fatalities have happened on other parts of the road. If you look at accidents and memorials on that road they are not at those two points."

The road is due for improvement as part of the Greater Cambridge Partnership, formally known as the City Deal, with £39 million earmarked to make the road safer.

The partnership has yet to specify what the improvements will include.

Mr Donno said: "We can all say there are a lot of accidents at certain points, the Chamber of Commerce is looking at the business transport point of view and the road is not fit for purpose."

"Several fatalities have taken place on that road but they've not been highlighted, it's completely ridiculous. There is no one particular spot where accidents are. You've got to have a holistic view."

"There's still been no clarification on what the £39 million will be spent on."

Figures obtained by the News in May revealed that since 2011 there had been 52 serious and fatal crashes on the A1307 from the junction with the A603 right down to the boundary with Suffolk at Haverhill.

bevelled glass, leaded glass, coloured glass splash backs and double glazed unit replacements.

At this time of year we see an increase in the number of misted double glazing units we replace as the warmer weather increases the appearance of condensation in failed units."

"Many people are unaware that there is no need to replace the whole window frame as it is only the glazing that needs replacing. We have often been able to make our customers considerable savings when explaining this."

B&C also repairs/replaces uPVC locks, handles and other window/door parts to avoid unnecessary full-frame replacement costs.

They also offer both a supply and fit or a supply-only service.

Corrie's dad vows to expose the 'lies and deceit' once son found

CONVINCED: Martin McKeague believes his son Corrie's remains will be found at the Milton landfill site

@AnnaSavvaCN

THE father of missing RAF gunner Corrie McKeague says he will one day expose "the lies and deceit" which have plagued his family since his son's disappearance.

Martin McKeague, 48, was speaking following his latest visit to the Milton landfill site, where police believe the remains of the 21-year-old lay amid thousands of tons of rubbish.

Mr McKeague remains convinced that the landfill site is where the team of police volunteers, who have been working through all weathers for 17 weeks, will finally uncover Corrie's remains.

But in a statement on his Facebook page, Mr McKeague admitted that since his son went missing in Bury St Edmunds last September, he and his wife Trisha have seen "the very best and worst in people."

"You know something, it's true what they say: You find out a lot about people when tragedy strikes," he said. "And over the past nine horrific months Trisha and I have seen the very best in people and the absolute worst in people."

"But Trisha and I both know that when this is all over, when all of our combined efforts have finally brought Corrie home, the truth about everything that's happened here will all come out."

"I will not let my son's name continue to be tied to the lies and deceit that have accompanied this investigation in the mainstream and social media once this has come to an end."

For the father it has been a "living hell" waiting for news of the discovery of his son's final resting place, but he knows one day the full extent of his ordeal will be revealed.

Until then he can only hope his son's remains will be found, and with it the closure he and his family so desperately long for.

Mr McKeague continued: "Now we are only waiting for that moment to arrive, even as 5,350 tons of rubbish have now been dug and hoisted and raked through at the landfill site over the last 17 weeks."

"As last week's baking, broiling heat has turned into gale force rains that have altered the landfill's landscape into a slick and dangerous toil, the ground is now an ankle-deep muddy trudge, where even the machinery is struggling to cope."

"Yet the teams continue to meet their 80 to 90 tons per day pace of 'moving heaven and earth', just as they met that higher figure on Wednesday during my 17th visit to the site.

"Do we think they are getting close to finding my son? The type of rubbish that's being found where they have now focused their efforts suggests they are. But I have no crystal ball. Only hope."

He continues to take comfort in the strength of the Suffolk and Norfolk Police volunteers, whom he describes as embodying the "best" of human nature.

But Mr McKeague admits he's also had to confront the 'absolute worst in some people' – the types of behaviour that would have been unimaginable to me in any other circumstances'.

Speaking on social media he said: "Everyone involved has done everything in their power to try and find my son. There are simply too many names to thank . . . We're completely humbled by it. They are the best of people. Just like all of you."

"And anyone who questions that, has simply not stood where Trisha and I have stood, spoken with the people who are making this incredible effort and seen first-hand what we have seen."

Meanwhile Corrie's girlfriend, April Oliver, revealed she had given birth to their baby girl. On Father's Day she posted a picture of her cradling the newborn, who has been named Ellie-Louise.

The search continues.

FESTIVAL

Town raises a glass to its performers

HAVERHILL residents enjoyed the return of the town's annual Beer and Music Festival.

A host of musical acts and street performers kept visitors to the Market Square entertained at the weekend.

Now in its third year, the festival also featured a range of real and craft ales, ciders, plus hot and cold food stalls.

A live music stage had acts ranging from soul singers and acoustic artists through to ukulele players.

The festival was organised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council in conjunction with the Market Square Group.

Ahead of the event Cllr Alaric Pugh, cabinet member for planning and growth, said: "This is only the third year of the festival but it is already very popular and we have had lots of positive feedback."

Sharon Fairweather, market development officer at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said the weekend's event had gone "really well".

"It's getting bigger every year," she added. "It was very very busy. We sold out of cider on Saturday."

"It was such a lovely day and everyone was enjoying themselves. I hope the people of Haverhill enjoyed it."

NEW FLIGHTS TO SOUTH AMERICA
LOW-COST airline Norwegian is spreading its wings to South America with the announcement that it will be launching flights to Argentina starting next year on February 14.

The direct London to Buenos Aires flights will tango with British Airways' current monopoly on the South American route, offering affordable fares from just £299 one way for the 14-hour journey.

Boeing 787 Dreamliners will be used for the service which will fly four times a week to Buenos Aires Ezeiza International Airport. See norwegian.com

HOLIDAY RIP-OFFS REVEALED
NEW research from Post Office Travel Money has revealed the 'holiday rip-offs' that could be responsible for almost seven-in-ten families busting their budgets on trips abroad by £159 each.

Two-thirds of families who took part in the survey complained that a range of rip-offs - led by airplane food and drink prices - caused them to spend more than budgeted on their last holiday.

According to holidaymakers, the second biggest perceived rip-off was the high cost of excursions - a budget-buster for more than a quarter of the parents surveyed (27%).

More than one-in-five were frustrated by how much it cost to get around in taxis and on buses, while a further 20% thought that compulsory service charges added to restaurant bills were a 'rip-off'.

Bringing the Avatar world to life

DAVID BENTLEY takes a trip that is, quite literally, out of this world - to sci-fi planet Pandora

TAKING a trip to the world in James Cameron's Avatar blockbuster would normally be quite a challenge.

Not only because it's 4.4 light years from Earth - that's 25 trillion miles - but also because it's a fictional creation of the filmmaker and his visual effects team.

But now Disney's magic and Cameron's imagination have come together to bring the impossible to life.

The result is Pandora - The World of Avatar, a brand new attraction at Disney's Animal Kingdom Theme Park, part of the Walt Disney World Resort in Florida.

We were invited to be among the first to see this new £400 million experience based on the alien moon in the 2009 movie.

Disney licensed the theme park rights from Cameron and 20th Century Fox in 2011 and began construction in January 2014 on a site then occupied by Camp Minnie-Mickey.

At the grand unveiling, Cameron appeared with the Avatar cast, telling us: "I never thought I'd see the day when the Pandora I imagined could be made physically real. Working with Disney to bring this world to life has been an amazing experience. It really feels like you're stepping into a dream."

Then it was time to see it for ourselves. The 12-acre site has lush gardens where cleverly crafted Pandoran plants mingle with familiar earthly flora.

There's a rainforest chorus of chirrups and cries and the Floating Mountains of the movie loom incredibly before your eyes, clad in jungle flora and laced with tumbling waterfalls.

Fantasy and reality merge, the real and the artificial co-exist - it's all part of an immersive adventure.

Officials stationed around the gardens stay in character as scientists who now live on Pandora and can tell you all about the landscape and its wildlife.

In the movie, human visitors to Pandora are each linked to their own avatar - an artificial body grown in a tank to resemble one of the native people, the 10ft tall, blue-skinned

The Satu'li Canteen at Pandora

Na'vi. They are then able to ride dragon-like flying creatures known as banshees.

This idea is central to the attraction's thrill ride, Flight of Passage. To go on it, we went inside one of the mountains, strolled past a lab showcasing the bizarre science of Pandora and were then matched with our own avatars.

We mounted our seats and put on 3D glasses. And then we were off, flying on our very own banshee. The motion simulator ride plummeted, swooped, swerved and soared across the Pandoran landscape of dense jungle, deep canyons, rocky shores and glowing caves.

Heart-racing moments with colossal sea-beasts and a giant wave may give some glimpse of what Cameron has in store in the first of his Avatar sequels, due in 2020, where he has promised to explore the oceans of this world.

Wind and spray on your face, the smells of earth and sea, and the sensation of the banshee's breathing between your knees all help to create what must be Disney's best ride yet.

It's not dissimilar to Star Wars: The Adventures Continue, a 3D ride at Disney's Hollywood Studios, but Flight of Passage is more surprising, like your very first trip to a spectacular new planet, as well as more cutting edge.

Intense, exhilarating and beautifully detailed, it's a technological feast as well as a visual feast.

Pandora's other ride is the far gentler Na'vi River Journey, a boat trip through a cave where you see bioluminescent plants and animals lit up in the dark and meet the

The Na'vi River Journey ride where guests sail in reed boats down a river within the bioluminescent rainforest

Shaman of Songs, a Na'vi high priestess who is Disney's most advanced animatronic to date.

The whole attraction can be experienced at night, when you can stroll through the luminous landscape or get the adrenaline racing again with another go on the Flight of Passage. A gift shop, restaurant and drinks kiosk can also be found on the Pandora site.

There's ample chance for repeat rides as the attraction is open from 8am to 1pm. For those staying at select Disney hotels, it's accessible as late as 1am until July 4.

Going there early or late is an ideal way to avoid queues and there's also a FastPass+ service which enables you to book a slot way in advance.

After a day or more at Pandora, you might need to come back to Earth for a breather - but the experience may still be exotic.

We were staying at Disney's Animal Kingdom Lodge, a safari-themed hotel with its own pool, gift shop, restaurant, children's clubhouse (where you can leave the kids supervised for the evening) and more than 30 species of African wildlife wandering the grounds.

From my balcony, I had a close view of giraffes, zebras, ostriches, antelope - and some red river hogs foraging in the ground after a tropical downpour.

We made our own splash at Typhoon Lagoon, a Disney water park that actor Alan Cumming hired for his 50th birthday bash in 2015.

There are aquatic slides and rides, a 'lazy river' to drift along on an inner tube and the fun of the wave pool. But you can just sunbathe on the sand or sip cocktails in a cabana if you fancy a more relaxed day before enjoying more sparkle and spectacle.

Going on to Disney's Magic Kingdom, we sampled attractions such as Haunted Mansion, Pirates of the Caribbean (the river boat ride that inspired the film franchise) and the rollercoasters Seven Dwarfs Mine Train and Big Thunder Mountain.

Buzz Lightyear's Space Ranger Spin unleashes your inner child in a shooting-gallery game where you score points using a laser cannon, and Mickey's PhilharMagic is a 12-minute 4D movie show with eye-popping animated visuals leaping right out into the audience.

No visit to the Magic Kingdom would be complete without posing for a photo at Cinderella's Castle, the legendary landmark of the Disney company. We returned at night to see Happily Ever After, a show featuring fireworks, projections and an audio-visual medley of Disney cartoon classics including The Little Mermaid, The Lion King, Frozen and many more.

It delivered the perfect grand finale for a day out. But there's plenty more excitement to be discovered. The next day we were off to Disney's Hollywood Studios, once a film and TV production studio but now a full-blown theme park.

Some rides - Rock N Roller Coaster Starring Aerosmith and Twilight Zone Tower of Terror - offer

Movie Avatar inspired the new attraction

NEED TO KNOW

■ DAVID BENTLEY travelled from Gatwick direct to Orlando courtesy of Walt Disney World and Virgin Holidays, staying at Disney's Animal Kingdom Lodge, Lake Buena Vista, Florida.

■ Virgin Holidays packages (flight and seven nights' room only at Disney's Animal Kingdom Lodge) are priced from £1,325 per person (departing November 17, 2018, from Gatwick) or £1,465 per person (departing March 10, 2018, from Manchester), based on two adults and two children sharing a standard room with more heightened thrills. But then we took it down a few notches for the kid-friendly fun of Toy Story Mania, another shooting gallery ride for zapping moving targets.

Time then to lift off for more adventure, this time to a long time ago in a galaxy far, far away.

After heading into the Star Wars Launch Bay where we looked at film props, crossed paths with patrolling Stormtroopers and had a cuddle with Chewbacca, our evening concluded with Star Wars: A Galactic Spectacular, a dazzling show of projections and pyrotechnics. A whole building became a

■ There are also seven-night packages at Disney's All Star Music Resort, priced from £885 per person (departing August 30, 2017, from Manchester) or £925 per person (departing August 31, 2017, from Gatwick), based on two adults and two children sharing a standard room plus Disney's Ultimate Tickets.

spaceship, huge flames shot up into the sky and Darth Vader's chilling tones resonated across the crowds.

On our last day, we shopped till we dropped at Disney Springs in the Florida sunshine and I was delighted to discover the Marvel Super Hero Headquarters, a geeks' gold-mine of comics and collectables where you can stand against green screen and be transformed into your favourite character.

But you needn't be a superhero or sci-fi fan. Disney's vast resort has something for all tastes, with family entertainment always in mind and Pandora its shining new highlight.

A taste of the Fringe

FRINGE COMEDY: Shappi Khorsandi is at the Haverhill Arts
Centre tomorrow night

First port of call this week is The Roy Orbison and Buddy Holly Show (today): Darren Paige and Marc Robinson are two dedicated blades who have devoted their careers to recreating the music of their musical heroes.

Now, they join forces, backed by The Counterfeit Crickets band, for an uplifting show of all Roy and Buddy's hits. Get ready to hum along to Pretty Woman and Peggy Sue at 7.30pm.

In a late addition to the printed brochure, the Arts Centre is pleased to announce it has bagged yet more greats for the Edinburgh Fringe Preview tomorrow and Friday.

First up it has Shappi Khorsandi, with a new show, with support from Kelly Convey (recently seen having a rather cringy time on an episode of First Dates).

Next week it has Mark Steel with support by Andrew Ryan. Please note that occasionally the line-up for the comedy events changes at short notice. It shouldn't happen but it might.

On Sunday, the Haverhill Arts Centre car park will be home to The Haverhill Historic Vehicle Rally. Experience the va-va-voom of vintage vehicles when more than 100 cars, lorries, vans, fire engines, military vehicles and buses are displayed for the day at the Haverhill Historic Transport Rally. It takes place in the South Car Park between 10am to 5pm: admission is free.

Don't miss the free vintage bus rides which will leave every 30 minutes between 1pm and 4pm, and if you need a refresher the Arts Centre bar and café will be open for drinks and snacks. There will also be a selection of historic transport films running on the cinema screen.

Barb Jungr has wowed audiences and critics worldwide with her powerful reinterpretations of Bob Dylan's work. Known for her passionate singing, minimal and subtle arrangements, and great humour, Jungr is the definitive performer of one of the great musical icons of the 20th century, Bob Dylan. Every Grain of Sand is on Saturday at 8pm.

Sofia Coppola's La Traviata is a luscious collaboration between the American film-maker and the king of Italian haute couture, Valentino. Together they present this revival of Verdi's opera with this performance filmed during its sell-out run at the Teatro dell' Opera di Roma. See the spectacle on the centre's cinema screen on Monday at 7.30pm.

Angels in America (Thursday, July 20 and Thursday, July 27) charts, on an epic scale, tales of New Yorkers grappling with life and death, love and sex, heaven and hell in the midst of the AIDS crisis in Reagan's America. It stars Andrew Garfield, Nathan Lane and Russell Tovey (among others) and has been well received during its current run at the National Theatre. The broadcast for both performances starts at 7pm.

There's good comedy at the cinema this week with Whisky Galore (Tuesday) and Going in Style on (Thursday, July 13 and Monday, July 17).

The former is a remake of the classic Ealing Comedy and sees Eddie Izzard as Captain Waggett, the Home Guard officer. In the latter, Morgan Freeman, Michael Caine and Alan Arkin are a gang of geriatric bank robbers trying to right the world's wrongs. Maybe the exploits of the elderly Hatton Garden mob were the inspiration?

Things get more serious on Tuesday, July 18 with The Zoo Keeper's Wife, in which the true story of Antonina and Jan Zabinski is dramatised; they used their Warsaw Zoo as a front to smuggle hundreds of Jews to safety in the Second World War.

Coming up, there's the much-anticipated 2017 Maastricht Concert by Andre Rieu and his 60-piece orchestra (Saturday, July 22 and Sunday, July 23) and Cardboard Carnival by Lempet Puppet Theatre on Tuesday, August 8 at 11am – a playful show with fantastical animal puppets made out of card.

Stonic compact SUV is unveiled

KIA: Stonic will rival Juke and Captur

KIA may be coming a bit late to the fast-growing compact SUV sector but once the front-wheel-drive Stonic arrives in the UK in October it is expected to become one of the Korean car maker's top-selling models.

Unveiled this week this five-door, five-seater compact SUV, based on Kia's current Rio platform, is likely to be priced between £14,500 and £15,000, smack bang up against the established rival pair of the Nissan Juke and Renault Captur.

The Stonic will be powered with a choice of three current Kia petrol engines – the 1.0-litre 118bhp three-cylinder plus the 1.25-litre and 1.4-litre – while a 1.6-litre diesel engine will be added later.

Kia's UK boss Paul Philpott says the Stonic will prove to be "both one of our biggest selling cars and also our biggest new car to attract conquest sales".

He went on: "The B segment is the fastest growing in the business and we are so pleased to be able to now compete in it for the first time with a model that's really different in our view from the opposition."

Calls for diesel scrappage grow

AROUND two-thirds of UK road users would support a scrappage scheme for older diesel cars, vans and lorries in an effort to get the worst polluting vehicles off our roads, according to a survey by IAM RoadSmart.

Research by the independent road safety charity asked respondents to rate the various options put forward in the Government's recent nitrogen dioxide consultation but found that only three per cent of respondents are confident that the proposed measures solve the problem quickly.

Some 64 per cent of those surveyed said they supported a diesel scrappage scheme, compared to 27 per cent who didn't. Most wanted any scheme to apply to cars over eight years old.

More than 1,400 people across the UK including members and non-members took part in the survey, which was conducted earlier this month.

DIESEL: Pollutants disquiet has reached levels which may impact on the future of older models

Some 83 per cent of those surveyed by IAM RoadSmart agreed with the government's view retro-fitting buses, coaches, HGVs, vans and black cabs with new equipment should be the priority.

However those surveyed felt the driver as an individual also has a responsibility to drive in a more eco-friendly manner. Some 75 per cent agreed that encouraging drivers to change their driving behaviour should play a part in the government's approach to tackling air quality.

UK drivers appear to have been influenced by the "dieselgate" scandal as 67 per cent of them either mistrust or strongly mistrust car makers to sell cars that will match consumer expectations for environmental performance.

Sarah Sillars, IAM RoadSmart chief executive officer, said: "It is clear to me that the public at large feel the Government needs to be decisive and proactive when it comes to making our air quality better. They see strong government direction as key to making sure it happens.

"It is however clear that the car manufacturers have some way to go to rebuild trust with the public – it would seem that only when their environmental claims more closely match real world performance that the trust will be on the increase."

DB11: 0-60mph of 4 seconds for V8

Aston Martin DB11 gets 4-litre V8 turbo

AFTER its successful global introduction in 2016, Aston Martin's definitive GT – the acclaimed DB11 – is now available with a 4.0-litre twin-turbocharged V8 engine.

Perfectly complementing the DB11's existing 5.2-litre twin turbocharged V12 engine, this new powerplant produces 510PS and 675Nm of torque. The V8 engine propels the DB11 from 0-62mph in just 4.0 seconds and on to a top speed of 187mph. This exceptional performance is matched by impressive efficiency: CO2 emissions of 230g/km and an EU Combined fuel economy figure of 28.5mpg.

Aston Martin chief technical officer, Max Szwaj, said: "To be able to offer not one but two exceptional GT cars is terrific for Aston Martin and our customers."

BMW adds new M Performance option to X3 range

BMW is turning up the heat in its SUV range by adding an M Performance model to the all-new X3 line up.

The X3 M40i will become the flagship of the new series which is due for release in November.

Powered by a 3.0-litre, straight six cylinder engine developing 360bhp its performance credentials almost match the mighty M3 super sports saloon and with a 0 to 60 acceleration time of 4.8 seconds it is one of the quickest X models BMW has ever produced.

Top speed is limited to 155mph and, despite its might, BMW says it is rated at 34.5mpg with emissions of 188g/km.

The high performance M40i will be priced from £51,280 – the first time an X3 has broken the £50,000 barrier – and puts the car up against the like of the Porsche Macan.

The third generation of BMW's medium-sized Sports Activity Vehicle – as BMW calls its X models – will also feature a 2.0-litre four cylinder diesel priced from £38,800 and a 3.0-litre straight six 30d model at £44,380, increases of almost £5,000 over the current model.

A new 2.0-litre petrol engine will also be joining the range later.

The new X3 is of similar proportions to present vehicle but has a wheelbase two inches longer and a shorter front overhang. The car also features BMW's new hexagonal theme to the design of the front grill and fog lamps.

Boot space is unchanged, ranging from 550 to 1,600 litres.

BMW says it has shaved up to 55kg in weight from the new X3 which makes the car almost 100kg lighter than the original of 2003. Best economy in the new range will come from the xDrive 20d diesels which have an official fuel figure of 56.5mpg and CO2 of 132g/km.

All have a revised xDrive four wheel drive system designed to improve handling on and off-road as well as eight-speed automatic transmissions.

GOING UP A GEAR: The new BMW X3 M40i will be priced from £51,280

THE E-PACE: Up against X1 and Q3

Jaguar's second SUV to cost from £28,500

JAGUAR is planning to capitalise on the success of the award winning F-PACE with the launch of its second SUV at a price which will shake up the luxury crossover market.

The new E-PACE will cost from £28,500 – just a few hundred pounds more than the cheapest XE saloon and some £6,000 less than its bigger brother.

Styled in similar fashion to the F-PACE – voted the World Car of the Year only a few months ago – the E-PACE will be about the same size as the Range Rover Evoque and Land Rover Discovery Sport.

It will be powered by Jaguar Land Rover's Ingenium family of petrol and diesel engines and will be available in both two and four-wheel-drive.

The E-PACE will have its world premiere in London on July 13 and a teaser picture, above, showing only part of the rear of the vehicle has been released.

Land Rover's Discovery wins 'Car of Year' award

UK automotive magazine Auto Express is the latest publication to recognise the new Land Rover Discovery's peerless performance, awarding it the coveted 'Car of the Year' title at its awards ceremony in London this week.

Recognised for its unique blend of practicality, versatility, refinement and off-road credentials, this latest accolade celebrates the evolution of the Discovery lineage. Jeremy Hicks, managing director, Jaguar Land Rover, said: "The latest Land Rover Discovery is a real step up in terms of technology, design and capability from its predecessor. It's the ultimate expression of Land Rover's blend of ability, luxury and practicality, and we are thrilled that it is getting the recognition it deserves with this 'Car of the Year' title."

Flexible seating configurations designed for modern life is one of the technology features Auto Express' rigorous testers examined. The spacious cabin accommodates seven full-sized adults comfortably and can be instantly configured from a smartphone using world-first remote 'Intelligent Seat Fold technology'. Features such as a generous 2,406 litres of luggage space, best-in-class 3,500kg towing capacity, nine USB ports, and semi-autonomous safety technology, won favour with the judges.

Steve Fowler, editor-in-chief of Auto Express, said: "The new Discovery is an incredible vehicle, combining Land Rover's traditional on- and off-road brilliance with a level of luxury this class hasn't seen before. It also boasts a level of practicality, tech, refinement and efficiency that make it a massively desirable and deserving car of the year."

The new Discovery joins its smaller sibling, the Discovery Sport, in Land Rover's Discovery family of vehicles. The Discovery family couples Land Rover's world-beating all-terrain performance with all the technology and flexible features required for work or for leisure.

This award marks the second consecutive year that a Jaguar or Land Rover vehicle has taken the top gong at Auto Express' annual prize-giving. In 2016 the Jaguar F-PACE was voted the best car of the year by the experts at Britain's biggest weekly car magazine.

You can configure your own Discovery at landrover.co.uk. Prices start at £43,495.

THE UP!: Praised by Auto Express

Volkswagen delighted with two award wins

THE updated Volkswagen Golf has added another prestigious prize to its collection with news that it has been crowned Compact Family Car of the Year in the annual Auto Express Awards.

The latest model features the option of all-new engines, more technology, improved connectivity and revised styling.

The latest Volkswagen up! city car, now boasting a refreshed exterior design, the option of a new 1.0-litre TSI turbocharged engine offering up to 90PS and extra equipment as standard, has also been praised by Auto Express for its quality, refinement, generous interior space and high-end equipment options.

New Civic Type R wins Hot Hatch title before launch

THE British-built next-generation Honda Civic Type R has won Best Hot Hatch at the Auto Express New Car Awards.

Demonstrating its huge popularity and that front wheel drive still rewards drivers in an increasingly competitive sector, the new Civic Type R is set to hit retail forecourts in August.

First unveiled as a surprise entry prototype at the Paris Motor Show at the end of September last year, the mass production version of the next generation Civic Type R was first seen at the Geneva Motor Show in March this year.

Made in Swindon, the next-generation Civic Type R comes hot on the heels of the current car, which was commended at last year's awards and which Honda expects to become a modern classic with only 2,500 on UK roads.

The prestigious Auto Express New Car Awards are given to the cars that set the highest standards in their class each year. These awards are also important for both carmakers and customers because of the authority and integrity of the Auto Express brand.

It all fell into place, says delighted Sims

ALEXANDER Sims felt everything clicked into place as he claimed his first sports car victory in North America.

The West Wrating racer (pictured right and main picture) and his BMW Team RLL colleague Bill Auberlen claimed the top step on the podium in the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship Sahlen's Six Hours of the Glen in their #25 BMW M6 GTLM.

Sims set a fastest lap time of 1min 42.813sec during qualifying to secure second place on the grid at the New York circuit, and he was quick off the line when the race got under way.

Auberlen was then caught in a five-car battle in the middle stages and slipped back to fourth, but an incident for a Porsche up ahead brought out a yellow flag and he regained the lead when the race restarted on lap 107.

The #24 sister BMW car passed them for first place on the next lap and it stayed that way until the next pit stops, with Sims taking over to rejoin the race in seventh.

That improved to sixth and then second, before a final caution period helped the team's fuel strategy and Sims was able to take the lead and charge to the line.

"We really earned this win," said

Sims. "It was such a close race with an incredible field of drivers and cars. I think it makes it even more special knowing the quality of the field when you get a result like this.

"We've tested at Watkins Glen before and that helped me find my feet – I really love this place. I felt very comfortable coming into this weekend and knew we had a good package.

"The race threw up some unique challenges and we had to deal with tyre and fuel management, so that last yellow flag was important and made sure we got to the end.

"Everything fell into place and BMW Team RLL did a fantastic job. They really nailed the M6 set-up this weekend.

"I think we've built momentum throughout the season and we have the car working really well, so we've got to keep on doing our job, having flawless races and hoping that things swing our way.

"In such a competitive field like this you need to maintain your momentum, but you also need luck on your side. So, fingers crossed, this continues for us."

Wild West rollercoaster

CRAIG Williams was left rubbing his eyes in disbelief as Weston Colville won a dramatic CCA Senior League, Division One contest at Foxton II.

The visitors were 71 for 3 before a huge collapse reduced them to 90 all out and seemingly set for defeat.

Sam Charlton top-scored with just 17 for Weston Colville, while Ravi Mahendra did most of the damage for Foxton by claiming 5 for 13.

However, the hosts then suffered an even bigger slump – losing six wickets for a mere two runs and finding themselves on a sorry 16 for 8 at the hands of Matt Daniels (4 for 6) and Adie Westley (4 for 16).

Foxton could still have triumphed as Mahendra (31) dominated a 40-run stand with Roger Tomlinson, who fought hard to keep his team-mate on strike.

But Weston Colville captain Williams brought himself on and removed Mahendra with his first delivery, before Trevor Westley took the final wicket to leave the home team all out for 60.

"At 90 all out you're thinking 'oh my God', but then we had them 16 for 8 and it was absolutely unbelievable," said Williams. "Adie and Matt bowled fantastically. They (the batsmen) just couldn't get it away and the momentum just went our way.

"The pitch wasn't overly bad and I think a lot of people got themselves out from both teams."

Hit 'em Hard!

HARRY Harding produced a "devastating" spell of spin bowling as Haverhill beat Worlington by 52 runs in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

The 16-year-old slow left-arm bowler proved virtually unplayable, claiming exceptional figures of 6 for 5 from 6.4 overs – his best in a Haverhill shirt.

His exploits helped dismiss Worlington for 82 in their run chase after Haverhill were all out for 134.

With the bat for the hosts,

Will Bailey made 26 after Dave Humphrey (17) and Rob Dovaston (25) helped them rebuild from 32 for 5.

"This was a fantastic game to play in," said Haverhill captain Adam Dellar.

"Our middle order did well to get us to a competitive total after a sticky start, and then our bowlers took over and Harry's six-wicket haul was devastating.

"It was a massive 20 points for us and gives us something to build on going into the second half of the season."

Haverhill II were beaten by 116 runs when they visited Little Bardfield in Division Three.

Skipper Liam Botten hit a half-century and Josh Ruthven added 30, but they were limited to 158 for 8 after their opponents registered 274 for 4.

It was far closer when Haverhill III lost by just eight runs at Bardwell in Division 9W. Captain Greg Street (76 not out) and Alex Archer (51) put on 110 together, but the side had to settle for 197 for 5 as they chased the hosts' 205 for 5.
